

Physicist Jessica Wade and the Fight to get Women on Wikipedia

Tuesday, January 28, 2020

7.00pm, Tuesday 28th January, h club

Of the 1.5 million biographies on Wikipedia, only 1 in 6 are of women and if you were a woman scientist, even lower. Jessica Wade has been on a one-woman mission to even out the bias. She has written 600 biographies of women and minorities and has been awarded the British Empire Medal for her troubles. She is going to be talking about history, women's place in it and on her own work as a physicist.

And, as an additional treat, we have an intro from Allyson Stewart-Allen. MBA-qualified Allyson is author the best-selling book Working with Americans, the first business manual exclusively about how to break into the US market.

TICKETS

Non-members: £20

Members: £8 (members can bring a friend for £8 too, please select two tickets at checkout)

If you'd like to find out more about membership click here.

Are you a member?:

Select Are you a member? ▾